

Secret Service Photo Gallery

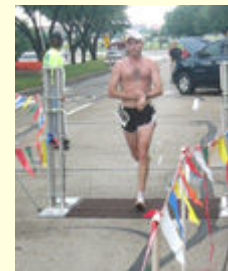

There was no lack of activities at the April 29 Secret Service 5K at Williams Square in Irving. Youngsters had their faces painted and handed multi-shaped balloons. There was a bounce house, a chance to try on a 35-pound police bullet-proof vest, to see specimens from the Fort Worth Zoo, including a boa constrictor, an owl and a penguin, and, maybe the highlight, to watch and sit in two helicopters, one a Black Hawk, that flew over and landed. For food, participants could chow down on a full barbecue dinner, which included ham, brisket and turkey. Bagels, apples and oranges also were available. If you wanted to spend some money, a silent auction was conducted. It included everything from sports memorabilia to lawn maintenance equipment. Oh, yes. There was even a band. Whew.

Mark Reid paints faces.

And they're off!

David Perkins wins men's division in 16:57.

Trying on police vest.

Chasing the leaders.

It's a sprint to the finish in 5K.

Looking over auction.

Youngsters warm up for race.

Eating with the horses.

