

Too Cold To Hold

A cool, almost perfect day for running resulted in some fast times at the Too Cold To Hold 15K, 5K in Dallas on Saturday (Jan. 17) morning. Clint Bell sped to a 15:22 to win the men's 5K on the out-and-back course at White Rock Lake as the temperature was near 50. Alexandra Davis came in from Ardmore, Okla., to take the women's title in 19:25. In the 15K, Chris Strait won the 9.3-mile men's title in 55:58, while Riva Graeme, last year's Cowtown Marathon winner, won the women's in 1:04:05.82.
