

Bringing back the Dr Pepper

Jim Engstrom won the men's 66-70 age division at Dublin on June 9 and brought home a case of Dr Pepper. Here is Jim's view of the race:

The 2-4-10K was pretty much the same as usual--warm and humid!

The town turns out for the Dr Pepper Days and seems to enjoy the running festivities. The race director employs plenty of volunteers (no wrong turns) and water stations were well placed. As I remember we passed four on the route.

The race doesn't seem to be as well attended as in the past years. This is probably due to the number of races nowadays and travel distance between major areas.

Our local area was well represented. Bill Richardson, John Ball, Paul Johnson and John Ross did well in their respective age groups. There were several place winners from the Metroplex in both the 10K and 4K categories. Age group winners received a case of Dr Pepper in bottles; second place a case of Dr Pepper in cans, and third place winners received 12 cans of Dr Pepper. In all, it was a fine morning and always worth the trip to Dublin.
